FLORENCE

SEWING MACHINE.

Copy of the Report of the Committee of Awards at the Fair of the AMERICAN INSTITUTE
NEW YORK, 1865.

To the FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE CO. for the Best Family Sewing Machine, Highest Premium! Gold Medal!

REASONS:
1st.—Its simplicity and great range of work.
2d.—The Reversible Feed Motion.
3d.—The perfect finish and substantial manner in which the Machine is made.
4th.—The rapidity of its working and the quality of the work done.
5th.—The self-adjusting Tension.

The Florence was awarded the first and highest premium at the State Fair of California, the only Fair on the Pacific coast at which any two double thread Sewing Machines were exhibited in competition in 1865.

The Florence received the only premium awarded by the Mechanical Institute of San Francisco, in 1864 and 1865, to any Sewing Machine, Sewing Machine Co., or Agent. The claim of a competitor to a medal is without any foundation whatever.

Wherever the Florence has been brought in competition with other Sewing Machines, it has always been declared the best. It is the most simple, the most substantial, the most efficient, and its use is easily learned. Every Machine sold is guaranteed in the full sense of the word.

THE GUESTS OF THE HEART.

Soft fall through the gathering twilight
The rain from the dripping eaves, And stir with a tremulous rustle
The dead and the dying leaves; While afar in the distance the windows, I hear the sweet voices of bells, Come borne on the wind of the autumn, That fitfully rises and swells.

They call and they answer each other—They answer and sing again—As the deep and the shrill in the anthem Make harmony still in their strain;
As the voices of sentiment mingle In mountainous regions of snow, Till from hill-top to hill-top a chorus Floats down to the valleys below.

The shadows, the fire light of even,
The sound of the rain's distant chime, Come bringing, with rain softly dropping, Sweet thoughts of a shadowy time:
The clamorous sense of exclusion, From storm and intruders aloof, We feel when we hear in the midnight The patter of rain on the roof.

When the spirit goes forth in its yearnings To take all its wanderers home, Or afar in the regions of fancy Delights on swift pinions to roam, I quietly sit by the fire-side,
The fire-light so bright and so warm—For I know that those only who love me Will seek me through shadow and storm.

But should they be absent this evening,
Your rain and your shadows may fall:
Deserted, I should not be lonely, There still would be guests in my heart.
The flames of better things I cherish, The smile and the glance, and the tone, Will haunt me wherever I wander, And thus I am never alone.

With those who have left behind them The joys and the sorrows of time—Who sing the sweet songs of the angels In a purer and holier clime!
Then darkly, O evening of autumn,
Your rain and your shadows may fall:
My loved and my lost ones you bring me, My heart holds a feast with them all.

OUR NEW YORK CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, JAN. 25 1868.

Gotham has been startled out of its equanimity of week by the news from Washington. The action of Congress on the new reconstruction measures, the Supreme Court bill, and the re-instalment of Secretary Stanton to his former position in the War Department, have not failed to procure a profound impression in commercial and financial circles.

The newspapers are about equally divided in opinion as to the propriety at this juncture, when trade and industry are almost paralyzed, in resorting to such extreme legislation. Its effect upon the manufacturing and mercantile interests is very generally remarked; and in the sudden decline of prices for all kinds of merchandise, the upward tendency of gold, the advance in foreign exchange, and the increased exportation of bullion to Europe, forebodings still further prostration of business.

To use a phrase that is more forcible than elegant, the landlords of this city are cutting their own throats. By insisting upon extortionate rents, they have driven thousands of families out of the city, and the probability is that the exodus will be still greater next Spring. The cities and towns adjacent to New York have accordingly improved with great rapidity, at the expense of the metropolis, and have all proportionately increased in population during the last three or four years, more rapidly than this city. So it must continue to be, unless our avaricious landlords get their eyes open to the fact that they are only injuring themselves by driving tenants away.

The leading hotels have already made a good beginning this week by cutting down the price of board from five to four dollars a day, and some even to two and a half and three dollars. This is enough in all conscience for the privilege of being packed in a room six by nine like a herring, up four flights, and take the chances of getting something to eat at a crowded table of half-starved guests with only a slim attendance of waiters to serve up the dishes. It will not be long before another downfall of prices will occur. The Fifth Avenue, Clarendon and New York Hotels are only about half full and barely paying expenses this season. The others must be losing money. Nearly all the first-class private boarding-houses, located in the more fashionable quarters, seem to be running behind hand. Without a good sprinkling of winter boarders with thick plethoric purses to enable them to make a display, these expensive caravansaries cannot long continue to hold together.

The extravagant times of King, Shoddy, when it seemed to rain greenbacks, and government contracts afforded such a rich harvest of pickings and stealings for so many of our distinguished fellow-citizens to grow rich on, have suddenly passed away in a blaze of splendor never more to return. Many of our old Knickerbocker families, who formerly "boarded out" at these places, to escape the enormous expenses incidental to housekeeping here, and the trouble and annoyance of servants, and others of moderate fixed incomes, are living abroad in Europe. They find they can live there in a better style and with equal comfort for about one-third what it costs to live here at the present time.

The "honorable profession of street beggars" so called by the wretched looking specimens of ragged, unkempt humanity who belong to the secret beggars' organization of this city, received a fresh addition of two hundred and sixty men, women and children direct from England a few days since. The vessel, with its living freight of oast and crew, arrived here under special charter to the "organization" has its chiefs—for the organization has its mouth-piece, organ and leading men as well as all other trade organizations, societies and professions. These representatives are a trio of worthies known only to the initiated as "Old Pinkie," and another as the "Nipper Kid," and the third, the principal schemer of the tribe of wanderers as "King Golly"—a jolly, portly fellow, of ruddy face and dumpy proportions, suggestive of turtle and champagne and the good things of life generally. This secret triumvirate, following out the system devised by their ancient Roman predecessors, exercise their most unlimited and despotic authority over about three hundred street beggars and outcasts of this city, who they hire by the week for a certain percentage on their earnings. What the rules of society are, how they are enforced, or how much of this per centage on the alms received from the charitable disposed, goes to the royal trio, has not transpired among outsiders. Enough, however, is known to the police authorities to warrant them occasionally in interfering with the imperial decrees of the King and his confidential advisers, by forcing him, under threats of consigning him to Blackwell's Island as a vagrant, to live up to the contracts made with members of his tribe. When any of the number get sick, or become too much debilitated to pursue their calling, King Golly is compelled either to provide them with shelter, food, nursing, doctor and medicine, so that they will not become a burden upon the city, or send them back to England from whence most of them emigrated. When any of the number die he must provide for their burial in a decent manner, though of those who shuffle off this "mortal coil" more are consigned, it is asserted, to the students' table in a dissecting room of our medical colleges than to the bosom of mother earth.

The most annoying feature in the system of street begging is exhibited in the importunities of the ragged, unwashed boys and girls that pounce upon every pedestrian that happens to pause for an unlucky moment in any of our thoroughfares. These troublesome imps seem to spring up in your path, as if from trapdoors, by the tap of a harlequin's wand. They are drilled to perfection.
They study the characteristics of their victims with the skill of a Lavater. They know exactly when it is their cue to whimper and plead the piteous tale, or to be noisy and importunate, or to be silently imploring. Woo to the well-dressed lady that stops for a moment before the show windows of a milliner to study the newest style or admire a love of a bonnet. From their hidden lair, as if by magic, the little pests crowd about her, sometimes in groups of three or four, and commence to paw her silks and velvets.

We are convinced that they cultivate dirty hands and filthy raiment for the purpose of paralyzing the self-will of the unfortunate in rich attire that fall into their clutches.

Their head quarters are in Baxter street, near the centre of Five Points, and within a few minutes walk of the City Hall, the Courts of Justice, and the principal marts of business, and but two blocks from Broadway.

A number of Italian beggars also resided in the great Sixth Ward. They number over a hundred and fifty, and supply the whole city of New York with poor Italians. Poor, however, most of them are not. Many of them receive two or three dollars per day, and not a few of them are known to have money.
They have a separate organization of their own, as do also the German beggars, who on the streets, and very rarely a Frenchman.

Joseph Epstein has the reputation of being the richest beggar in New York.
Joseph is well known to the passers by in Chatham street. He has no legs, goes to and fro on his hands, is always filthy and disgusting. The stranger, spite of his loathing, feels inclined to "help the poor devil," and gives him a trifle; this operation having been repeated about ten times an hour, for ten hours per day, for many years. Joe is now reputed to be worth some $30,000, and owns his establishment uptown. During a premium, when "pennies" were a six or eight hundred cents a day besides four or five dollars received by him in stamps during the same period.
He is one of the meanest Dutchman living, has been twice married, and has had "trouble" with each wife. His wife robbed him of $2,000 and eloped with a rival mendicant. Joe has recently been arrested as a swindler and handed over to the cruel mercies of the law.

As he "operated" entirely on his own responsibility, the beggars' organization was his assistance. He decline to come to the Island, no doubt, and thus for a while at least, will terminate the richest beggar in New York.

Some very pleasant society gossip reaches us from Albany in relation to the romantic engagement of Maj. Gen.
Phil. Sheridan. The young lady to whom rumor says he is engaged, is Miss Grace H—n, a beautiful young lady of the Knickerbocker city on the Hudson, Albany. We learn that she was to have been married very soon to Dr. C. S—s, a well-known physician of that city.
Not long since she was sitting before her drawing-room window, richly dressed, when a carriage drove leisurely by, in which were seated two rather disdistinguished looking gentlemen. One of these was General M—n, but the other gentleman was unknown to the lady.

The unknown one gazed at Miss H's lovely face with great admiration, and it seems, insisted on alighting with General M—n, and entering the house with him, where he begged an introduction. His wishes were gratified, and Miss H—n was presented to General Sheridan. His agreeable impressions were strengthened, and in the evening he repeated his call, and has been calling every evening wreathengaged, and "fixings" all made ready for the ceremony.

A correspondent, writing under recent date from London says: "That the old days of Venice are reviving there. The new year has come in amid renewed reports of Fenian outbreaks, outrages and arrests. The matter has now become very serious, the country is in a fever of nervous excitement; the government does not know what to do. Speaking according to the standard by which John Ball has always judged the affairs of other nations, England must now be pronounced in a state of revolution. The police are armed with cutlasses and walk their beats in pairs, afraid to go alone. The Fenians whom they arrest are hurried off secretly to places of confinement, the locations of which are mysteriously concealed. See, too, how readily the Fenians defy the forces arrayed against them. Prisoners are released; a prison is blown up; gas works are attacked; in Ireland a martello tower is captured and a gunmaker's shop sacked; boats loaded with Fenians are seen off the coast, and murders and highway robberies in broad daylight constantly occurring." Comfortable place to live in, all things considered.

No more new cholera cases have appeared on board the Hamburg ship Leibnitz; the deaths, so far, have numbered 105. The ship has been sent to the Lower Quarantine, and the sick transferred to the floating hospitals in the bay. We hear that the ship is to be sued by some of the survivors; and that some charitable persons are furnishing money for this purpose. Surely such inhumanity should be punished, and owners of ships be taught that it will not pay to let covetousness carry them to such extremes.

The annual report of the Metropolitan Police states that during the past eight years 706,388 persons had been arrested. During the past year 103,269 persons were arrested.

Our city judges have ordered the discharge of all drunkards—that class elegantly termed "bummers" and "revolvers"—from the workhouse, in order to make room for the deserving poor, who in this inclement season, through a dearth of employment, are obliged to seek food and shelter from the city, even in the alms-house. About two hundred of the former have already been turned loose. When the next cold snap sets in the services of the coroners will be in constant demand to investigate cases of men found frozen on our streets, name and residence unknown. Such is life.

When we don't know what to do with a man, we propose to send him to Austria. John C. Fremont is talked of now.

Over 200 persons in this city manage to earn a livelihood these hard times by picking up the ends of cigars that have been thrown away and found lying in the muddy streets and gutters. These again are sold to the penny-dealers in tobacco "bits," and afterwards manufactured into fine cut chewing tobacco, or turned into the best imported Scotch and other snuffs. In direct contrast however, to the operations of this large class of industrious scavengers, there are about 2,000 other persons who live much better than they do by picking up pocketbooks and jewelry that have not been thrown away.

There would seem to be something peculiarly strange about the late City Bank defalcation of $400,000, which Mr.
Leverich, the absconding teller, is supposed to have made away with. It is stated, on very high authority, that the detective who was ordered by the Chief of Police to "work up" the case, was yesterday informed by the bank officials that his services would not be required any further in the case.

Stances has given rise to no small amount of speculation. The City Bank seems to be peculiarly unfortunate, as but a short time since the adroit forger Livingston victimized them to the handsome figure of $75,000 by means of a check purporting to emanate from Commodore Vanderbilt, which amount, it will be remembered he spent in indulging the pleasant pastime of buying land in the far West.

Some interesting facts may be gathered from the report of the Agricultural Bureau, with reference to the comparative areas of farm lands and waste lands in the different States of the Union.
For example, the Southern States exhibit an area of nearly three hundred million acres of wild or waste lands, two hundred million acres of farm lands unimproved—and only about seventy million acres nominally improved, more than half of which is not in actual cultivation. The extreme West shows about the same ratio of improved and unimproved agricultural territory.

The greatest area of wild land is found in Texas, which has no less than one hundred and twenty-six million acres of this profitable territory.

The largest farms are found in California, where the average size of eight-teen thousand farms is 666 acres.

Massachusetts, with thirty-eight thousand farms, averages only 94 acres to a farm.

The largest number of farms are found in New York, which has 196,000, averaging 106 acres, and the next largest in Ohio, which numbers 179,000, averaging 114 acres. Nevada, as yet, has only 91 farms, which average 617 acres.

The coming week brings us much in the way of theatrical novelty. New plays, first appearances, and revivals, are the order of the day, and theatrically inclined New York will be kept in a genuine whirl of excitement for some time to come. Whatever may be the condition of the money market, the theatrical market is certainly flourishing, and but seldom do we find the notes offered by the managers to the public going to protest from lack of artistic capital and pecuniary success to back them.

The most important attraction of the week will be the production of the "White Fawn" at Niblo's Garden. For the last eight days and nights the lives of official New York will be kept in a ballet have been lives of rehearsal—everything that can be done, is being done to make it

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

MOTHER'S GRAVE.

BY GEORGE D. PRENTICE.

The trembling dew-drops fall Upon the shutting flowers, like souls at rest;
The stars shine gloriously, and all Save me are blessed.

Mother! I love thy grave!
The violet, with its blossoms blue and mild, Waves o'er thy head. When will it wave Above thy child?

'Tis a sweet flower: yet must Its bright leaves to the morning tempest bow.
Dear mother, 'tis thine emblem—dust Is on thy brow.

And I could love to die—
To leave untraced life's dark, bitter stream, By those, as first in childhood, lie,
And share thy dreams.

And must I linger here,
To stain the plumage of my sinless years,
And mourn the hopes of childhood dear With bitter tears?

Aye, I must linger here,
A lonely branch on a withered tree Whose last frail leaf, untimely ere, Went down with thee.

Oh! from life's withered bower, In still communion with the past, I turn And muse with thee, the only flower In memory's urn.

And when the evening, pale, Bows like a mourner, on the dim, blue wave, I stray to hear the night winds wail Around thy grave.

Where is thy spirit flown?
I gaze above—thy look is imaged there;
I listen, and thy gentle tone Is on the air.

O! come, while here I press My brow upon thy grave, and in those mild And thrilling tones of tenderness, Bliss, bliss thy child.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE LAND GRANTS FOR AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.—The Secretary of the Interior at Washington makes the following statement of the distribution of the Agricultural College Land Script: In New Hampshire the proceeds of the lands granted by the Acts of 1862, for the encouragement of agriculture and mechanical arts, has been applied toward the establishing of an agricultural and mechanical department in Dartmouth College. In Vermont, the University of Burlington has received the benefit of the grant. Massachusetts has located an Agricultural College at Amherst, separate from other institutions. Rhode Island has assigned her land script to Brown University, and Connecticut has given the donation to Yale. New York has appropriated the funds of the College land script to the Cornell University; and Rutgers College, in New Jersey, receives the benefit of the grant to that State. Pennsylvania has an Agricultural College near Bellefonte, in Centre county, and the annual interest from the proceeds of land script, until otherwise ordered, is devoted to this institution. The State Agricultural College of Michigan established at Lansing in 1855, receives the benefit of the land grant, and in 1866 had a farm of six hundred and seventy acres, and more than one hundred students. Iowa has a State Agricultural College in Story county; and in Wisconsin the State University at Madison receives the benefit of the grant. Kansas has an Agricultural College at Manhattan; Kentucky has a successful institution at Lexington, and West Virginia has just established a College at Morgantown.

HAS SHE A CALL TO BE A WIFE.—Has she a call to be a wife who thinks more of her silk dress than her children, and visits her nursery no oftener than once a day?

Has the woman a call to be a wife who sits reading the latest novel, while her husband is standing before the glass, vainly trying to put together a buttonless shirt bosom?

Has that woman a call to be a wife who cries for cashmere or camel's hair waists, when her husband's notes are rustled?

Has that woman a call to be a wife who expects her husband to swallow diluted coffee, soggy bread, smoky tea and watery potatoes, six days out of seven?

Has she a call to be a wife who flirts with a every man she meets, and reserves her frowns for the home fireside?

Has she a call to be a wife who comes down to breakfast in abominable curl paper, as a soiled gown, and shoes down at the heels?

Has she a call to be a wife who bores her husband when he comes into the house, with the history of a broken teacup, or the possible whereabouts of a missing broom-handle?

Has she a call to be a wife whose husband's love weighs naught in the balance with her next door neighbor's damask curtains or velvet carpet?

Has she a call to be a wife who would take advantage of a moment of conjugal weakness to extort money or exact a promise?

Has she a call to be a wife who takes a journey for pleasure, leaving her husband to toil in a close office, and "have an eye" when at home, to her servants?

Has she a call to be a wife to whom a husband's society is not the greatest of earthly blessings?

Has she a call to be a wife who listens to outside slanders against her husband, and does not scorn the slanderer?

THE EIGHT HOUR BILL.—The following is the Eight Hour Bill passed by the House on Monday last:

Be it enacted, That eight hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics now employed, or who may be hereafter employed, by or on behalf of the Government of the United States; and that all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act, be, and the same are hereby repealed.—Washington Chronicle, January 11th.

THREE robbers in New York recently attempted to rob a porter of a valuable cash box, by throwing an immense quantity of pepper into his eyes. But the porter was tenacious, and summoned the police before the crime was fully effected.

A LITTLE four-year-old child in Portland, told his father he was a fool. On being reprimanded by his mother, and required to say he was sorry, he toddled up to the insulted parent and exclaimed, "Papa, I'm sorry you're a fool."

THE Philadelphia Ledger says, truly that the chief want at the present time appears to be men and women who will quietly do their whole duty, and not tell anybody of it.

PASSENGERS were brought from New York by the Golden City for $125, $180 and $40, greenbacks—the lowest fare for many years.

A CARD FROM THE AMERICAN WATCH COMPANY

Of Waltham, Mass.

This Company beg leave to inform the public that they commenced operations in 1850, and that factory now covers more acres of ground, and has cost more than a million dollars, and employs over 700 operatives. They produce 75,000 Watches a year, and make and sell not less than one-half of all the watches sold in the United States.

The difference between their manufacture and the European, is briefly this: European are made almost entirely by hand, and the result is of necessity a lack of that uniformity, which is indispensable to correct time-keeping. Both the eye and the hand of the most skillful operative must vary. But it is a fact, except watches of the higher grades, are the product of the cheapest labor of Switzerland and the result is the worthless Ankers, Lepines and so-called Patent Levers—which soon cost more in attempt repairs, than their original cost. Common workmen, boys and women, buy the rough separate parts of these watches from various factories, polish and put them together, and stamp and engrave them with any name or brand that may be ordered.

How American Watches are made.

The American Waltham Watch is made by no such uncertain process—and by no such incompetent workmen. All the Company's operations, from the reception of the raw materials to the completion of the watch, are carried on under one roof, and under one skillful and competent direction. But the most distinguishing feature of their watches, is the fact that, except several parts are all made by the finest, the most perfect and delicate machinery ever brought to the aid of human industry. Every one of the more than a hundred parts of every watch is made by a machine—that infallibly reproduces every succeeding part with the most unvarying accuracy. It was only necessary to make one perfect watch of any particular style and then to adjust the hundred machines necessary to reproduce every part of that watch, and it follows that succeeding watches must be like it.

The Company respectfully submit their watches on their merits only. They claim to make

by their improved mechanical processes than can be made under the old fashioned handicraft system. Their manufacture watches of every grade, from a good, low-priced and substantial article, in solid silver hunting cases, to the finest chronometer; and also ladies' watches in plain gold or the finest enamel and jeweled cases; but the indispensable requisite of all their watches is that they shall be GOOD TIME-KEEPERS. It should be remembered that, except their single lowest grade named the "Home Watch Company, Boston," ALL watches made by them

ARE FULLY WARRANTED

by a special certificate, and this warranty is good at all times against the Company or its agents.

MEDICAL.

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH.

Every Man His Own Physician.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS,
AND HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT!

Disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The Stomach is the great centre which influences the health or disease of the system—Abused or debilitated by excess—indigestion, offensive breath and physical prostration are the natural consequences. Afflicted to the brain, it is the source of headaches, mental depression, nervous complaints and unrefreshing sleep. The Liver becomes affected and generates bilious disorders, pains in the side, &c. The Bowels sympathize by Costiveness, Diarrhea and Dysentery. The principal action of these Pills is on the stomach, and the liver, lungs, bowels and kidneys participate in their recuperative and regenerative operation.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum.
Are two of the most common and violent disorders prevalent on this continent, to these the Ointment is especially antagonistic, its modus operandi is "first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure."

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.
Cases of many years' standing, that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariably succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruptions on the Skin.
Arising from a bad state of the blood of chronic diseases, are eradicated, and a clear and transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this medicine. It purges the blood of the poisons of the system, and many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in its power to displace and other disfigurements of the face.

Female Complaints.
Whether in the young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these tonic medicines display so decided an influence that a marked improvement is soon perceptible in the health of the patient. Being a purely vegetable preparation, they are a safe and reliable remedy for all classes of Females in every condition of health and station of life.

Piles and Fistula.
Every form and feature of these prevalent and stubborn disorders is eradicated locally and entirely by the use of this emollient; warm fomentations should precede its application, and healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, Piles, Sore Legs, Burns, Rheumatism, Sore Breasts, Chills, Ringworm, Sore Heads, Salt Rheum, Sore Throats, Scalds, Sprains, Gout, Stiff Joints, Tetters, Ulcers, Lumbago, Skin Diseases, Venereal Sores, Sores of all kinds, Mercurial Eruptions, Swelled Glands, Wounds of all kinds.

CAUTION.—None are genuine unless the words "HOLLOWAY, NEW YORK AND LONDON" are discernible as a Water Mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

Sold at the manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY, 50 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggists and Dealers in Medicine, throughout the civilized world.

There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.
